

DO NOT COMPARE YOURSELF WITH OTHERS

(We are born originals and we die photocopies)

I personally call this the world disaster today, not only in the poor economy countries but also the developed nations. The most life coaches, motivational speakers, and other outstanding ideologists who have been mentoring me through their splendid books and videos used to call it “core genius”.

Core genius is the special ability one is born with and it is the most outstanding of all person`s doings in their life time. As a God`s creation believer, I directly connect it to the purpose of life or more appropriately the purpose of creation. As we may all know that God`s creation formula starts with reason or purpose (nothing was created before the purpose of creation of the particular thing, refer; Gen.1:1-26), everything God created was preceded by a firm reason, the one I so call “purpose of creation”.

The human being as other things created but in more special way, has his/her purpose of creation which is a definite meaning of existence on earth (reason to why you and me are still alive). It is exceptionally advantageous to discover the purpose of your creation, which in turn determines the meaning of your existence.

NOW, HOW DO YOU DISCOVER THE PURPOSE OF YOUR CREATION?

The only precise and true answer is the concept I called “core genius”, you may notice that most of the times in the society recognizes it as a talent, but it is more than a talent.

Each and every one of us on earth as their own unique purpose of creation, we are born with certain talents (special abilities) which are definitely for fulfilling our purpose of life. By so saying, any attempt to try to envy others or recklessly copy from others is a brutal atrocity on our own meaning of life. I used to believe that whenever I feel jealous on someone`s achievement on their talents, then it`s clear that I have not yet fully discovered my core genius. To cement on my belief, here is an example, Should the greatest football player of all time like Lionel Messi feel jealous on Chris Brown`s magical dances(American hip hop musician)?

Apparently no! Because everyone is at the climax of their own core genius.

HOW DO WE DIE PHOTOCOPIES?

From one of my favorite book titled “core genius” by Joel Nanauka, an author clarified about eight forms of core genius together with features that people exhibit when they possess certain form of core genius, I recommend it for anyone who wishes to make his/her life more meaningful.

People kill their original, as they try to copy from others, by ignoring the real you and focusing on becoming like somebody and actually it`s never possible, one ends on becoming someone else`s copy. The less we work on discovering our core genius the more we are likely to die as photocopies.

To die original, work hard to discover your core genius then work harder to unleash all the potentials connected to that very core genius which is the real you from the day of your birth.
